

Master of Library Science: M.Lib.Sc Course Details

Library Science is an interdisciplinary area that covers the learning of the standards and performances of Library Administration. It is also called Library and Information science. M.Lib.Sc is a Post Graduate Degree that is offered for a program in the area of Library Science. Indian Library Association is a leading union committed to the source of Library Movement and Development. It is also responsible for certification of institutions imparting Library Science education.

It also covers promotion of Library Science Education and the development in the training of Librarians in the country. M.Lib.Sc covers materials like library networking, on-line and digital library services, library science research etc. it is a two-year program. For distance education program, the duration varies from 1 years. This will depend upon various institutes.

Eligibility Criteria for M.Lib.Sc

The eligibility for applying the course is a pass in graduation in Library & Information Science / Library Science / Information Science or equivalent from a reputed college. There are certain institutes, which carry out entrance test for selecting the applicants for the program. There are certain distance-learning institutes which allow bachelor's degree in Commerce, Science, Computer Applications, Arts and Business Administration. There are different Library Science Schools, which offer Library Science Degree courses at the post graduation level.

Advantages or Benefits of Master of Library Science Degree

- M.Lib.Sc prepares candidates to take up the information challenges of the coming years.
- One can study an advanced degree like M.Phil or a PhD program after finishing M.Lib.Sc.
- With a master's degree in Library Science, aspirant can get jobs in Libraries or take up a research- based profession in the Information Industry.

What to do after M.Lib.Sc?

After the M.Lib.Sc program, you can go either for a job or for higher studies. You can work in libraries of various institutes. The aspirants can work as catalogers, curators, librarians and abstractors. In the academic field, opportunities are increasing. The aspirants can go for M.Phil or PhD courses after the completion of Master of Library Science course.

Job and Career options for M.Lib.Sc

There are many technologies coming in the field of reading material. Some of them are electronic media and digital documents. Now a day we are getting information faster. This area is improving to a greater extent. The chances are also increasing. The aspirants can work in foreign embassies, public and photo libraries. Some posts available for these aspirants are information analyst, professor and information center director.

Job Types

- Director / Head of Information Centre
- Information Architecture
- Information Broker
- Junior Information Analyst
- Librarian
- Metadata Architecture
- Professor
- Researchers
- Senior Information Analyst
- Technical Assistant

Employment Areas

- Companies and Organizations with large Information handling requirements
- Foreign Embassies
- Information Centers / Documentation Centers
- Museums and Galleries with Reading Rooms and Research Facilities
- News Agencies and Organizations
- Photo/ Film Libraries
- Private Organizations and Special Libraries
- Public / Government Libraries
- Universities and other Academic Institutions

Remuneration after M.Lib.Sc

Most of the librarians are working in private and public academic institutions. The M.Lib.Sc holders can get jobs in educational institutions, research firms etc. The candidates who are getting chances in Libraries of recognized institutes can earn an income of Rs.20000 to Rs.45000 per month. The salary range will increase once they get few years of experience from a well-known institute. The aspirants who are working in public health research and Information Technology services can obtain more remuneration. As it is a post graduation, aspirants can turn into teaching also. Those who are working in junior colleges generally get less pay than the aspirants are working in the universities.